

Stakeholders & Mission

What is the ISE?

The ISE provides analysts, operators and investigators with integrated and synthesized terrorism, weapons of mass destruction and homeland security information needed to enhance national security and help keep our people safe.

These analysts, operators and investigators come from a variety of communities - law enforcement, public safety, homeland security, intelligence, defense, and foreign affairs – and may work for federal, state, local, tribal, or territorial governments. They also have mission needs to collaborate and share information with each other and with private sector partners and our foreign allies. While they work in different disciplines and have varying roles and responsibilities, they all rely on timely and accurate information to achieve their mission responsibilities.

The ISE Program Manager (PM-ISE) works with these communities to improve the management, discovery, fusing, sharing, delivery of, and collaboration around terrorism-related information. The primary focus is any mission process, anywhere in the United States, that is intended or is likely to have a material impact on detecting, preventing, disrupting, responding to, or mitigating terrorist activity. Examples include: terrorism watchlisting, person and cargo screening, suspicious activity reporting, and alerts, warnings and notifications.

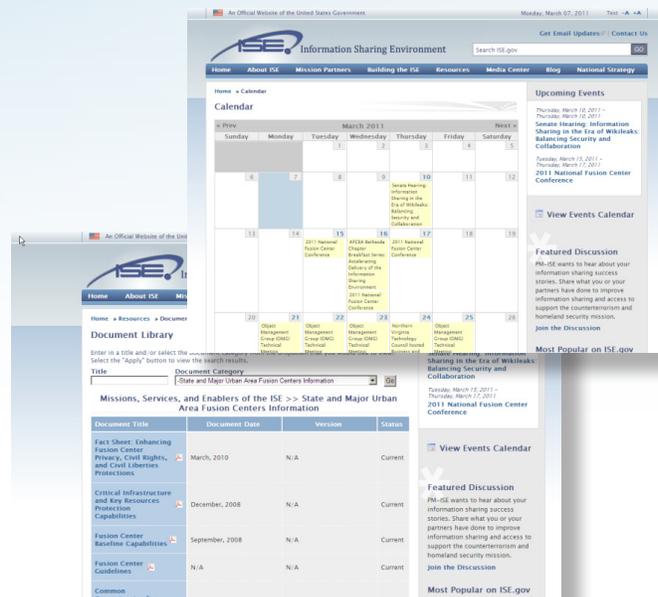

Learn more about the ISE's mission partners, current projects and best practices at www.ISE.gov.

- Information Sharing Environment (ISE) spans across Federal, State, Local, and Tribal Agencies; Private Sector; and International Allies (Mission Partners)
- Mission Partners Span Communities and Require Integrated Solutions
- ISE Enables Mission Partners to Securely Share, Discover, Fuse & Deliver Terrorism and Homeland Security-related Information
- PM-ISE's Mission is to Plan, Oversee Mission Partner Delivery, and Manage the ISE

For More Information, Visit Our Website

- Follow the ISE blog and track ISE-related news
- Learn about the ISE Mission Partners
- Find resources and tools including a document library and ISE 'blue pages'
- Stay on top of ISE-related events
- Share your information sharing success stories

For more information, visit www.ISE.gov or contact ContactUs@ise.gov

